Important Disclosure Information

SUMMARY OF RISK FACTORS & IMPORTANT DISCLOSURE INFORMATION

BREIT is a non-listed REIT that invests primarily in stabilized income-generating commercial real estate investments across asset classes in the United States ("U.S.") and, to a lesser extent, real estate debt investments, with a focus on current income. BREIT invests to a lesser extent in countries outside of the U.S. This investment involves a high degree of risk. You should purchase these securities only if you can afford the complete loss of your investment. You should read BREIT's prospectus carefully for a description of the risks associated with an investment in BREIT. These risks include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Since there is no public trading market for shares of BREIT's common stock, repurchase of shares by BREIT is generally the only way to dispose of your shares. BREIT's share repurchase plan, which is approved and administered by BREIT's board of directors, provides BREIT's stockholders with the opportunity to request that BREIT repurchases their shares on a monthly basis, but BREIT is not obligated to repurchase any shares, and BREIT's board of directors may determine to repurchase only some, or even none, of the shares that have been requested to be repurchased in any particular month in its discretion. In addition, repurchases will be subject to available liquidity and other significant restrictions, including repurchase limitations that have in the past been, and may in the future be, exceeded, resulting in BREIT's repurchase of shares on a pro rata basis. Further, BREIT's board of directors has in the past made exceptions to the limitations in BREIT's share repurchase plan and may in the future, in certain circumstances, make exceptions to such repurchase limitations (or repurchase fewer shares than such repurchase limitations), or modify or suspend BREIT's share repurchase plan if, in its reasonable judgment, it deems such action to be in BREIT's best interest and the best interest of BREIT's stockholders, such as when repurchase requests would place an undue burden on BREIT's liquidity, adversely affect BREIT's operations or impose an adverse impact on BREIT that would outweigh the benefit of repurchasing shares submitted for repurchase. BREIT's board of directors cannot terminate BREIT's share repurchase plan absent a liquidity event which results in BREIT's stockholders receiving cash or securities listed on a national securities exchange or where otherwise required by law. As a result, BREIT's shares should be considered as having only limited liquidity and at times may be illiquid.
- Distributions are not guaranteed and may be funded from sources other than cash flow from operations, including, without limitation, borrowings, the sale of BREIT's assets, repayments of BREIT's real estate debt investments, return of capital or offering proceeds, and advances or the deferral of fees and expenses. BREIT has no limits on the amounts BREIT may fund from such sources.
- The purchase and repurchase price for shares of BREIT's common stock are generally based on BREIT's prior month's net asset value ("NAV") and are not based on any public trading market. While there will be annual appraisals of BREIT's properties performed by independent third-party appraisal firms, the valuation of properties is inherently subjective, and BREIT's NAV may not accurately reflect the actual price at which BREIT's properties could be liquidated on any given day.
- BREIT is dependent on BX REIT Advisors L.L.C. (the "Adviser") to conduct BREIT's operations, as well as the persons and firms the Adviser retains to provide services on BREIT's behalf. The Adviser will face conflicts of interest as a result of, among other things, the allocation of investment opportunities among BREIT and Other Blackstone Accounts (as defined in BREIT's prospectus), the allocation of time of its investment professionals and the substantial fees that BREIT will pay to the Adviser.

- Principal and interest payments on any of BREIT's outstanding borrowings will reduce the amount of funds available for distribution or investment in additional real estate assets.
- There are limits on the ownership and transferability of BREIT's shares.
- BREIT does not own the Blackstone name, but BREIT is permitted to use it as part of BREIT's corporate name pursuant to a trademark license agreement with an affiliate of Blackstone Inc. ("Blackstone"). Use of the name by other parties or the termination of BREIT's trademark license agreement may harm BREIT's business.
- BREIT intends to continue to qualify as a REIT for U.S. federal income tax purposes. However, if BREIT fails to qualify as a REIT and no relief provisions apply, BREIT's NAV and cash available for distribution to BREIT's stockholders could materially decrease.
- The acquisition of investment properties may be financed in substantial part by borrowing, which increases BREIT's exposure to loss. The use of leverage involves a high degree of financial risk and will increase the exposure of BREIT's investments to adverse economic factors such as rising interest rates, downturns in the economy or deteriorations in the condition of BREIT's investments.
- Investing in commercial real estate assets involves certain risks, including but not limited to: tenants' inability to pay rent; increases in interest rates and lack of availability of financing; tenant turnover and vacancies; and changes in supply of or demand for similar properties in a given market.
- Recent concerns about the real estate market, changes in interest rates, elevated inflation, increased energy costs and geopolitical issues (including trade and other conflicts) have contributed to increased market volatility and may negatively impact the economy going forward. BREIT's operating results will be affected by global and national economic and market conditions generally and by the local economic conditions where BREIT's properties are located, including changes with respect to rising vacancy rates or decreasing market rental rates; inability to lease space on favorable terms; bankruptcies, financial difficulties or lease defaults by BREIT's tenants, particularly for BREIT's tenants with net leases for large properties; elevated inflation, changes in interest rates and supply chain disruptions; market volatility and changes in government rules, regulations and fiscal policies, such as property taxes, zoning laws, limitations on rental rates, compliance costs with respect to environmental laws and the scaling back or termination of government contracts (such as the termination of the U.S. General Services Administration ("GSA") leases).
- BREIT's portfolio is currently concentrated in certain industries and geographies, and, as a consequence, BREIT's aggregate return may be substantially affected by adverse economic or business conditions affecting that particular type of asset or geography.
- Competition for investment opportunities may reduce BREIT's profitability and the return on your investment.

Important Disclosure Information (Cont'd)

- Local, regional, or global events such as war (e.g., Russia / Ukraine), acts of terrorism, public health issues like pandemics or epidemics (e.g., COVID-19), recessions, or other economic, political and global macro factors and events could lead to a substantial economic downturn or recession in the U.S. and global economies and have a significant impact on BREIT and its investments. The recovery from such downturns is uncertain and may last for an extended period of time or result in significant volatility, and many of the risks discussed herein associated with an investment in BREIT may be increased.

The properties, sectors and geographies referenced herein do not represent all BREIT investments. The selected investment examples presented or referred to herein may not be representative of all transactions of a given type or of investments generally and are intended to be illustrative of the types of investments that have been made or may be made by BREIT in employing its investment strategies. INDEX DEFINITIONS

An investment in BREIT is not a direct investment in real estate, and has material differences from a direct investment in real estate, including those related to fees and expenses, liquidity and tax treatment. BREIT's share price is subject to less volatility because its per share NAV is based on the value of real estate assets it owns and is not subject to market pricing forces as are the prices of the asset classes represented by the indices presented. Although BREIT's share price is subject to less volatility, BREIT shares are significantly less liquid than these asset classes, and are not immune to fluctuations. Private real estate is not traded on an exchange and will have less liquidity and price transparency. The value of private real estate may fluctuate and may be worth less than was initially paid for it.

The volatility and risk profile of the indices presented is likely to be materially different from that of BREIT including those related to fees and expenses, liquidity, safety, and tax features. In addition, the indices employ different investment guidelines and criteria than BREIT; as a result, the holdings in BREIT may differ significantly from the holdings of the securities that comprise the indices. The indices are not subject to fees or expenses, are meant to illustrate general market performance and it may not be possible to invest in the indices. The performance of the indices has not been selected to represent an appropriate benchmark to compare to BREIT's performance, but rather is disclosed to allow for comparison of BREIT's performance to that of well-known and widely recognized indices. A summary of the investment guidelines for the indices presented is available upon request. In the case of equity indices, performance of the indices reflects the reinvestment of dividends.

BREIT does not trade on a national securities exchange, and therefore, is generally illiquid. Your ability to redeem shares in BREIT through BREIT's share repurchase plan may be limited, and fees associated with the sale of these products can be higher than other asset classes. In some cases, periodic distributions may be subsidized by borrowed funds and include a return of investor principal. This is in contrast to the distributions investors receive from large corporate stocks that trade on national exchanges, which are typically derived solely from earnings. Investors typically seek income from distributions over a period of years. Upon liquidation, return of capital may be more or less than the original investment depending on the value of assets.

An investment in BREIT (i) differs from the Green Street Commercial Property Price Index in that such index represents various private real estate values with differing sector concentrations, (ii) differs from high yield corporate bonds and the ICE BofA High Yield Index in that private real estate investments are not fixed-rate debt instruments and such bonds represent debt issued by corporations across a variety of issuers with varying pricing, terms and conditions, (iii) differs from the NFI-ODCE in that such index represents various private real estate funds with differing terms and strategies and (iv) differs from equities and the S&P 500 Index in that private real estate investments are not large or mid cap stocks and are not publicly traded.

- The Green Street Commercial Property Price Index ("CPPI") is a value-weighted time series of unleveraged U.S. commercial property values with an inception date of December 31, 1997. CPPI is shown to illustrate general market trends for informational purposes only, does not represent any specific investment and does not reflect how BREIT has performed or will perform in the future. The index captures the prices at

- (cont'd) which commercial real estate transactions are currently being negotiated and contracted, measuring price changes across select property types covered by Green Street Advisors. All Property Sector weights: retail (20%), apartments (15%), health care (15%), industrial (12.5%), office (12.5%), lodging (7.5%), data center (5%), net lease (5%), self-storage (5%), and manufactured home park (2.5%). Apartments refers to multifamily, lodging refers to hospitality.
- The ICE BofA U.S. High Yield Index is a capitalization-weighted index that measures the performance of USD-denominated, below investment grade rated, fixed rate corporate debt publicly issued in the U.S. domestic market. An investment in high-yield corporate bonds is generally considered to be a less risky investment than private real estate.
- The NFI-ODCE is a capitalization-weighted, gross of fees, time-weighted return index with an inception date of December 31, 1977. Published reports also contain equal-weighted and net of fees information. Open-end funds are generally defined as infinite-life vehicles consisting of multiple investors who have the ability to enter or exit the fund on a periodic basis, subject to contribution and/or redemption requests, thereby providing a degree of potential investment liquidity. The term diversified core equity typically reflects lower-risk investment strategies utilizing low leverage and is generally represented by equity ownership positions in stable U.S. operating properties diversified across regions and property types. While funds used in the NFI-ODCE have characteristics that differ from BREIT (including differing management fees and leverage), BREIT's management feels that the NFI-ODCE is an appropriate and accepted index for the purpose of evaluating the total returns of direct real estate funds. Comparisons shown are for illustrative purposes only and do not represent specific investments. Investors cannot invest in this index. BREIT has the ability to utilize higher leverage than is allowed for the funds in the NFI-ODCE, which could increase BREIT's volatility relative to the index. Additionally, an investment in BREIT is subject to certain fees that are not contemplated in the NFI-ODCE.
- The S&P 500 Index is a market capitalization-weighted index that includes 500 stocks representing all major industries. Returns are denominated in U.S. dollars. The S&P 500 Index is a proxy of the performance of the broad U.S. economy through changes in aggregate market value. The S&P 500 Index is a widely used barometer of U.S. stock market performance. The key risk of the S&P 500 Index is the volatility that comes with exposure to the stock market.
